Floor Savers® help students focus

"I oversee a special education classroom that has one student who is hearing impaired and five students who are diagnosed with autism. My students with autism are very sensitive to loud noises and sensory changes, so something as simple as a chair squeaking across the floor can upset them and cause a disruption. When another teacher at my school showed me the Floor Savers, I knew they'd be a great solution for my students.

"Bret from Expanded Technologies actually helped me install all of the Floor Savers in my classroom. I was so grateful that he came out to help, and together we got it all done in no time. Bret is actually coming back to our school so he can demonstrate the installation to our custodian. I really appreciate that he went above and beyond for us, and I think that says a lot about what kind of company he runs.

Students notice how much quieter the classroom is

"Since we have installed the Floor Savers, there has been a noticeable reduction in noise in my classroom. One of my students with autism noticed the difference right away, so I showed him the Floor Savers and how they worked. It's really helped the learning environment. We have far fewer interruptions throughout the day."
